It's the Right Thing to Do

Break Down The Barriers™

Accommodate Everyone

Many different types of patients can face a frustrating dilemma in a physician's office... how to get on the exam table. Being able to easily get onto an exam table can increase a patient's comfort during the exam, help the physician conduct a more thorough and accurate exam and increase the satisfaction level of the overall patient experience. Breaking down these barriers in the exam room by having a Barrier-Free™ table will allow for an equality in health care that has been nonexistent in the past.

Most of the time, we think only elderly or disabled patients are the ones who need assistance getting on and off an exam table. However, there are many children who need assistance and would benefit from using a Barrier-Free™ examination table as well.

Midmark's Barrier-Free™ examination tables easily lower to a child's level, lift up small children and lower tall children so that the doctor can easily examine them. Obese children can also get on the table effortlessly.

Break Down The Barriers™

“Since there’s no way to reverse the aging process, the American health care system must start to prepare for the increase in elderly patients – and the decrease in caregivers. They can start with a simple step: equipping the examination room with products that make it easier for patients and the health care professionals who treat them.”

With the average age of patients on the rise, it is more likely that patients will need assistance in accessing an exam table. Increasing numbers of patients are likely to use wheelchairs, walkers or require staff aid. Barrier-Free™ tables allow patients to retain their dignity while getting on the table with little or no help.

Patient Safety

To meet the needs of America's disabled patients, as well as the physicians who care for them, Midmark's Barrier-Free™ examination tables decrease the chance of injury, help maintain the patient's dignity and reduce their anxiety.

Efficient Patient Care

“Ask any physician or member of their office staff and you’ll find that these new products fix problems they didn’t even recognize: possible back injury, extra labor and unproductive time. For the patient... these tables offer safe access, back support and eliminate the discomfort that comes from sitting with their legs dangling.”

Achieving the Highest Level of Efficiency, Safety and Comfort in the Examination Room for Both Physician and Patient

By listening to the needs of physicians and their patients, Midmark has developed new products that deliver higher levels of examination room efficiency and comfort to the patient, the physician and the staff. These new tables also reduce the likelihood of distress and injury to patients who are elderly, handicapped, obese or even pregnant who may have difficulty in accessing a standard exam table. Designed with the support of physicians and advocacy groups, Midmark believes its line of Barrier-Free™ tables go a long way in creating better exam room experiences for both the patient and the doctor.

“Decreasing the need for assistance gives the patient an improved sense of confidence.”

The Barrier-Free™ examination tables have the option of two easy-to-use foot controls, which power your patient effortlessly to the desired position.

The 622 foot control raises and lowers the table to your requirements.

The 623 multi-function foot control can make the seat and back section of the table move independently or simultaneously for the most efficient patient care. In addition, with a momentary touch of the Auto-Return button, the table automatically lowers to 20" allowing the patient a quick and safe exit off the table.

Midmark 623 Hand Control

In addition to the foot control, a hand control gives the 623 an alternative method of positioning patients.
